HUNT PROWLER NEAR FDR TRAIN

Renews Fight for Bowman Crossing Protection

MAYOR URGES STATE TO ACT ON OLD PLEA

Calls on Utilities Commission To Force B. & O. to Install Flasher Lights.

ASSERTS TIME LIMIT UP

Lives 'Jeopardized' Daily at City's Only Unprotected Grade, Hunter Writes.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today renewed his year-old demand on the Public Utilities commission of Ohio that it force the installation of a flasher light at the Bowman street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

In a letter to the safety division of the commission, Hunter called attention to the fact that the commission last January had ordered the railroad to install the flasher light within 90 days, later granting it an extension of six months.

Cites Lapse of Time.

The mayor's communication cited the lapse of time over and above the limits granted the railroad. He pointed out that the grade crossing was still unprotected and that the lives of persons using the crossing were being "jeopardized" until the light was installed.

Agitation for protection at the crossing was first started by Hunter early last year following a fatal automobile-train accident.

"While we have other crossings in Mansfield that are only partially protected, we feel that this is the important one at the present," the mayor wrote.

Points to Traffic Survey.

Hunter explained that a traffic survey had been made at the unguarded crossing last year and cited figures which showed that 1,266 pedestrians, eight school buses, 392 trucks and 3,315 automobiles passed over the crossing in a 24-hour period.

The Bowman street crossing, state highway 39, is the only grade in the city that is without any protection. There are five other crossings, however, that are only partially protected.

These include the Pennsylvania railroad at East Fifth street, unguarded from 10:30 p. m. until 5:30 a. m.; the Erie railroad at North Diamond street, unprotected from 5:30 p. m. to 5:30 a. m.; the B. & O. and Erie at North Mulberry street, unprotected from 11:30 p. m. to 5:30 a. m., and the Erie double track crossing at North Main street, unprotected from 11:30 p. m. to 5:30 a. m.

'Flying Hotel' Set For First Pacific Hop

Sister Ships Carrying 74 Passengers Will Fly Atlantic Ocean.

By SAM JACKSON
(AP Feature Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO — The world's biggest airplane, typifying America's supremacy on the peaceful side of aviation, awaits only a final government okay before spreading its wings over the Pacific.

Nameless as yet—except for the label "Model 314"—the craft has been dubbed locally "the flying hotel."

First of 6 Giants.

It is the first of six identical giants ot be delivered to Pan American Airways by the Boeing plant in Seattle. This one will reinforce Pan American's established airline to Hawaii and the Orient, but most of them are destined for a new adventure—plane service from New York to England, expected to start this spring.

The great ship justifies the oh's and ah's of the throngs who have watched it circle San Francisco bay.

It takes a crew of ten men to operate it, and comfortable accommodations are provided for 74 passengers. As a night sleeper it can carry 40.

Regular Dining Room.

One does not dine off the portable lap-tables of the ordinary transport plane. There is a dining room which seats 14 at a time.

IN THE DINING ROOM passengers eat at tables where there's room for 14 at a time. Between meals the room's for recreation, with the galley serving as a bar.

Between meals it converts into a recreation room and the galley becomes a bar.

Passenger accommodations include the so-called "bridal suite." This richly appointed compartment contains a love seat, an end table, a davenport that converts into berths, a combination dressing table and writing desk, a folding wash-stand cabinet, an occasional chair and a coffee table.

The standard compartments contain 10 berths each, and there are commodious men's and wofen's dressing rooms. The galley has a steam table and a refrigerator.

Can Cruise 6,500 Miles.

The craft weighs 83,000 pounds and its four engines, developing 6,000 horsepower in all, can drive it at 200 miles an hour. Under best conditions it could cruise 6,500 miles without refueling.

Exact plans for the five "314s" yet to come have not been determined, but most of them will go into service from New York to Southampton.

The Pacific Clippers cut the average passage time between San Francisco and Manila from 24 days to 5. The Atlantic air fleet will use the same figures in reverse. The 5-day passage of the fastest liners will be cut to 24 hours.

FUGITIVE FIGHTS RETURN TO O.S.R.

Detroit Man, Jailed After 14 Years of Freedom, Refuses To Waive Extradition.

Leo Leroy Stephens, 36, arrested in Detroit yesterday as a fugitive from Ohio State Reformatory after 14 years of freedom, today refused to waive extradition and will fight for his freedom on his record as a good citizen, Associated Press dispatches said.

Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said that extradition proceedings had been started to return Stephens to the reformatory as a routine matter. Hearing on the case has been set for March 3.

Stephens was arrested yesterday after a "friend" had betrayed his secret to police. He had resided in Detroit since 1925, and never was in any trouble in that time. He was charged with being a fugitive and entered a not guilty plea.

Stephens entered the reformatory Oct. 13, 1924 on a charge of auto stealing, from Franklin county, under a sentence of one to 20 years. The following June he walked away from the Sandusky honor camp, going directly to Detroit where he obtained employment.

He told Detroit police that he had wanted to "square his accounts with good citizenship." For several years he lived next door to a Detroit detective sergeant. He was employed first as a storage company van driver and later as a bartender.

Township Board Ready to Oust 'Whipping' Teacher

Board Holds Hearing Tonight, Sees Replacement as 'Only Solution' to Ashland Situation.

(By Staff Correspondent)

ASHLAND—Dismissal of Miss Gwendolyn Workman, teacher in the Riddle rural school near here, for "inefficiency and whipping beyond reason" probably will follow a hearing tonight in the Montgomery township house, members of the township board of education said today.

The 37 pupils in the school have been on a strike since Wednesday in protest to what parents described as "too severe punishment," and C. S. McNall, president of the board, said today that employment of a new teacher appeared to be the only solution to the situation. He said other applicants already were under consideration.

Asked to Resign Once.

McNall revealed that Miss Workman, teaching her first year at the school, had been asked to resign about three weeks ago because of "inefficiency and cruelty."

She refused, contending that she was justified in her punishment, and the board decided to give her another chance, McNall added.

The board president said parents protested that the teacher had struck children on the head with books and "switched them severely." The parents of a 12-year-old girl asserted that Miss Workman switched their daughter "until the skin on her back was broken."

"Parents of about half of the pupils in the school have complained about the teacher, and they will be given a chance to voice their protests to the board tonight," McNall asserted.

Miss Workman, whose home is in Danville, formerly taught in southern Ashland county. She is the only teacher in the Riddle school, about six miles east of Ashland. Her pupils are in eight grades and range in age from six to 14 years.

TAX TIME HERE

Semi-Annual Collection Gets Under Way Monday.

Collection of Richland county's real estate tax bill will not open officially until Monday, but $28,747 of it has already been paid, County Treasurer John E. Kolb said today.

Because the collection period is beginning several weeks late, a number of property owners thought their taxes were due and paid them without waiting for their statements, Kolb said.

The county's tax bill for the year is $1,504,511, about $8,600 less than last year, Arthur S. Beck, deputy county auditor, revealed.

Delayed nearly two months by a real estate reappraisal last year, the collection period will extend to April 1.

RAIFORD, Fla.— (U.P.) —The chances of Franklin Pierce McCall escaping death in the electric chair appeared slight today. He is scheduled to die Monday for the kidnaping of five-year-old Jimmy Cash of Princeton, Fla.

McCall sat in his "death row" cell at the state prison farm here, apparently still hopeful that his attorney's efforts to obtain a last-minute stay of execution would be successful.

EXPO GLITTERS ON OPENING DAY

Treasure Island Sends Bids To Millions For 10-Month Party at Golden Gate.

(By Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—Miss Golden West, come-on girl of the century, announced her betrothal to the rest of the world today at the opening of a glittering 10-months party called the Golden Gate International Exposition.

Thirteen states, 36 countries, hundreds of commercial exhibitors—and a gayway with few holds barred—bolstered the lady's romance, and sponsors estimated that by Dec. 2 fully 20,000,000 persons would have viewed the glittering spectacle of the exposition.

The $50,000,000 exposition was launched as a climax to completion of two great bridges across San Francisco bay. It is held on the world's largest man-made island, embracing 400 acres. This island, built up on bay shoals, cost $4,000,000 itself.

Some day the locale—named Treasure Island—will be an airport or submarine base. But today its multi-colored beacons heralded everything from the ultra-latest in science and entertainment to a historical and architectural anthology of states and nations.

Then, too, there was the 40-acre gayway with its Chinese concession, "Nude Ranch," incubator babies, midgets, snakes, spicy Greenwich village and displays of freaks, vieing for interest with the spectacular rides and the more customary carnival interest.

BOOSTS CROP CONTROL OFFER TO $395,000

Federal Government Increases County Allotment $116,000 Over Last Year.

RECEIVE $75,600 FOR '38

Farmers Expected to Collect Only Fourth of Maximum Under New Program.

The federal government today had offered Richland county farmers a maximum of $395,661 for participation in the federal crop program this year, an increase of $116,000 over the county's allotment for last year's program.

Unless the percentage of participation in the 1939 program is higher than last year, however, county farmers will collect only one-fourth of the amount available, or approximately $100,000.

1,300 Comply In 1938.

Guy L. Taylor, chairman of the county conservation committee, pointed out that county farmers will receive only $75,652 for complying with the 1938 program because only 1,300 of the 3,488 who were eligible met the federal requirements.

Payments for participation in last year's program will be made this year, and the first allotment of checks was distributed recently to farmers. Payments are made for reducing crop acreage and employing land-building practices.

Would Average $113.

"With 100 per cent participation of the county's 3,488 farmers this year they would receive an average of $113 each in addition to the income from their crops," Taylor said.

Under the new federal farm program, farmers can earn 15 cents per bushel on the normal yield per acre of the corn allotment and 28 cents per bushel for wheat. The figures represent a five-cent increase over last year for corn and a 16-cent increase for wheat.

The increase is due to a new provision of the farm act which pays the farmer for keeping his production within a county average in order to help stabilize farm prices, Taylor said.

"The new program is ready to start, and allotments will reach all farmers weeks before planting time so they can plan their year's program and purchase seed and fertilizer before the rush of spring work begins," he added.

RUMORS RIFE

Capital Hears SEC Chairman In Line For Court Post.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Reports spread in the capital today that William O. Douglas, chairman of the securities commission, had the inside track for the forthcoming appointment to replace Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis on the supreme court.

The White House was said to be seeking information as to whether Douglas, a former Yale law professor, would face substantial opposition in the senate, which must act upon all nominations.

One usually well-informed senator said Mr. Roosevelt wanted to know particularly whether appointment of Douglas would be agreeable to western senators, who have urged that a man from their section be named to the high bench.

Born 41 years ago in Minnesota, Douglas attended schools in Washington state between 1904 and 1922.

OKAYS SEWER SURVEY PLANS

State Engineer Tells Mayor City Can Choose Any of 3 Engineering Courses.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter announced today that the city has the approval of the state department of health to use any of the three courses of engineering it may choose to conduct a comprehensive survey of the sanitary sewer system.

City council meeting as a committee of the whole Tuesday night also will be told by the mayor that the state department has authorized the retaining of James Collier of Elyria as the city's sewage technician on a part-time basis for a period of six months which will effect an annual savings of approximately $1,100.

Hunter conferred yesterday afternoon with Bruce McDill, sewage engineer for the state department of health, who had previously consulted Collier at Elyria with James R. Turner, superintendent of the city's sewage plant.

McDill told the mayor that he believed Turner capable of handling the treatment plant alone, but inasmuch as he was not yet a class "A" sewage engineer, that the state department considered it advisable to keep Collier as part-time supervisor on which the responsibility of operation would rest. He said they planned to hold a state-wide examination of all sewage employes within six months. Collier is a class "A" engineer.

McDill said the department was not concerned about the engineers who conducted the survey of the Mansfield sewer system as long as the final analysis met with the department's approval.

SECRET GUARD SEES LURKING 'MYSTERY MAN'

DARTS INTO UNDERBRUSH

Runs Into Hiding as Police Arrive; Assassination of Cermak Recalled.

(By Associated Press)

FLORIDA CITY, Fla.—Secret service agents and state police searched the underbrush beside President Roosevelt's special train this morning for a man seen moving mysteriously just before the president left for Key West by motor.

The man, wearing a brown sweater and dark trousers, moved stealthily toward the roadside shortly before Mr. Roosevelt left the train at 9 a. m. but darted into the bushes as police rushed up.

Form Heavy Guard.

The secret service men and police immediately placed a heavy guard along the roadside where the man had appeared and still were searching for him when the president left.

It was on a Florida trip six years ago that Roosevelt was the target of an assassin. Giuseppe Zangara, who professed "hate for all rulers," fired five shots at him as he debarked from a fishing trip at Miami Feb. 15, 1933.

All the bullets, however, went wild as Mrs. W. F. Cross of Miami seized the gunman's arm. Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, companion of Roosevelt, was wounded fatally and four others were struck by the fire.

Cermak died two days after the president was inaugurated.

The president's motor car and seven others in the official procession got under way today just three minutes after Mr. Roosevelt descended from the train which brought him from Washington.

Route Changed.

Several hundred persons, most of them truck farmers and citrus growers with their families, lined the main street between a double row of royal palms in hopes of seeing the president, but secret service men chose a side route. All roads leading to the railroad tracks were blocked off.

Before starting the trip, President Roosevelt received an official committee welcoming him on behalf of Gov. Fred P. Cone and Mayor Edward Stiling of Florida City.

The president responded informally, saying he was glad to be here.

President Roosevelt set out on the 140-mile trip over the new $7,400,000 overseas highway to Key West riding on the right side of an open car with the top down.

Unique Theme Woven Into New Serial, "Convict's Daughter"

One of the most unusual themes ever woven into a newspaper serial story is used in "Convict's Daughter" by Ruth Ray Kane, which The News-Journal will publish beginning Tuesday.

Have you ever wondered what becomes of people who are skyrocketed into notoriety during a murder trial, after the trial is over and the headlines have taken up some other story? Miss Kane's engrossing serial revolves around a girl whose father was sentenced to the penitentiary for life, leaving her to fight her way through a hostile world alone.

Lovely enough to be a belle at any party, she was a social outcast because she was a convict's daughter. Friendless, broke, she faces the ultimate tragedy of her life when Fate, or whatever you call the force that guides your destiny, threw Big Jim Claridge across her path.

But he was worse than an outcast, he was a fugitive from the law and there was something hidden, something mysterious about him.

These two, an outcast and a fugitive, both barred from society but irresistably drawn toward each other, face an uncertain future—a future which depends upon one little thing. But neither know it, nor does the reader until the author brings this unusual story near to its close.

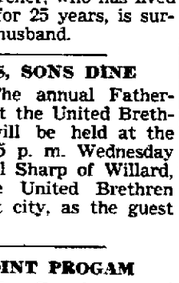
A Farmer's Diary

Logs for the Mill.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I SAW my nearest neighbor, with another man, cut from his woodlot the trees that were failing, measure the trunks into convenient lengths and saw them through with the familiar cross-cut. The teeth were sharp, and as they pulled it back and forth, I noticed how rapidly the thin, bright piece of steel moved downward with each stroke. The stream of clean, yellow sawdust spurted on each side, as the saw was pulled in that direction. When the saw had touched the lower rim of the log, my neighbor drove a wedge into the narrow opening at the top, which widened the crack sufficiently for the saw to finish cutting.



The men stooped low as they pulled, and I saw the keen bright teeth emerge from beneath the lower bark. Then they turned the saw sidewise, and drew one handle through beneath the log.

Presently he drove his team of coal black prancing horses through our lane, one end of the log held upon his old farm sled, the other dragging far behind. Ten trips he made over the snowy road during two wintry days, and I was glad for this service in helping to open up my drifted drive.

Over at the saw mill, several piles of logs had been pulled in by farmers recently. I heard the tractor bark, and the high-pitched note of the whirling circular saw. As I drew near, a large chestnut log was loaded on the carriage, then moved toward the hungry line of teeth. The thick heavy slice of slab slowed the panting engine. Light brown sawdust streamed into the vacuum elevator and blew upon a loosely heaped pile, like drifting sand.

I loved the fragrance of the new-made boards — the sweetish odor of the sugar, the pungent hickory, the strong moist smell of oak. These farmers use this lumber on the very farms from which the timber comes, for repairing buildings and bridges, renewing barns and sheds. It is the common, thrifty practice of our neighborhood.

HEALTH

Health is considered by some, God's greatest blessing to mankind. Many who were so blessed did not recognize it, and through neglect or circumstances beyond their control, have lost this God given blessing. Therefore nothing should be left undone that will restore Health.

For years the Plumber has been sort of ridiculed and the subject of many humorous phrases and pictures, but have you ever stopped to think, that while the Doctor cures disease, the Legitimate Plumber prevents it, thereby preventing the necessity of the Doctor. We, the Legitimate Master Plumbers, whose names are herewith attached, have been and are continuing to work for the better health of the community, which we serve. We spend our time and energy attending conventions, where the research from numerous persons is displayd and discussed; these men also are meeting from 2 to 4 times each month, at which meetings, matters pertaining to the best and safest methods of the numerous problems in Plumbing, Water Supply and Sewerage are thoroughly discussed and has the same bearing as the Doctor who attends clinics, all for the broader view and knowledge pertaining to the industry.

Dr. Alexander Davis will deliver 3 lectures at the Health, Beauty and Charm School next week—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon of each day—at which no charge will be made—giving all those interested in Good Health the opportunity of hearing his wonderful message and the proper way of preventing sickness.

PLAN SPECIAL EVENTS ON PATRIOTIC HOLIDAY

Chill Winds Do Not Deter Activities of Mansfield Club Leaders; Crowded Saturday to Be Followed By Busy Week.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

IT'S COLDER again. All those high hopes we were harboring about an early spring have vanished on the sharp wind that brought snow and sub-zero temperatures this week. We've turned gratefully to the fur coat, and the steaming radiator as we bemoan the sad fate which sends such weather.

A great many Mansfield club leaders are feeling about as we do on this cold subject, but it has been observed that they valiantly continue with the numerous affairs for which they are responsible. After a quick review of week-end events, let's see what's planned for our enjoyment during the week of Washington's birth.

Looking Over the Week's Calendar.

You know, of course, that the charming Miss Mary Lou Hehman became the bride of David T. Marantette, in an open church ceremony this morning. Over in Crestline this afternoon women in the auxiliary to the Railway Mail association have been enjoying a meeting at the Blue Lantern tea room, and young people in the Crescendo club have been enjoying an opera broadcast at the home of Jean Gardiner, Helen avenue. So much for the week-end.

This evening the smart set will be enjoying a dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel sponsored by the Our club. The affair, which is a dinner-dance between the hours of 7:30 p. m. and 1 a. m., is the final function of the season to be given by this particular group. Those in charge of the formal affair are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lusignan, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bisman, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stoodt and Mr. and Mrs. Estes C. Thompson.

Monday.

If you've wondered what kept Alvina Wappner, Virginia Leight, Doris Mann and Thelma Redd so busy the last few days, we'll let you in on the secret. They've been arranging a party for Mrs. Clifford A. Faust, the former Miss Freeda Herring, who is a member of the sorority. The affair will also be a formal initiation ceremony, at the Women's Club, and that takes plenty of planning.

Among the interesting club events for Monday is the joint luncheon session for the Round Table, Travelers and Victorian clubs. Mrs. Edwin Mansfield will receive for the first group, and Mrs. E. R. Hartman will be the Travelers hostess, while the Victorian club will be entertained at 1 p. m. by Mrs. Fred Wolf and Dr. Adda Liffring.

At this time Dr. J. H. King of Denison university will speak before the three groups at the Women's Club. Dr. King, who has appeared a number of times recently before Mansfield audiences, is the head of the English department at Denison, and will speak on American fiction His appearance here was arranged by Mrs. D. Dalton Deeds.

Other meetings include the session of the Central Methodist Episcopal church guild with Mrs. H. K. Day, Highland avenue, and Monday Study club session with Mrs. Harrison Alvord, the Ruth chapter initiation ceremony at the temple, and a session of the Daughters of Ruth class of St. Luke's church with Mrs Neil Neil Remy, and the Business Girls' class of the First Christian church with Mrs. Walter Grabosky.

Another bright spot in the entertaining field will be the dessert-luncheon bridge party the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority will sponsor. The girls will entertain members of the Galion and Shelby chapters at the Mansfield-Leland, and arrangements are being made by the Misses Isabel Gerstmeyer and Ann Hagar.

Officers will be elected the same afternoon when Mrs. S E Taylor, 241 Lexington avenue, entertains the Linnaeus Garden club. Mrs Charles Payne will assist, and "Spring Planting" will be the subject for discussion

Mrs. John O'Donnell will be in charge of the program to be given before members of the Notre Dame Study club Tuesday evening when Mrs. Paul Hensler opens her home to the group

At the same time a number of other smaller Mansfield organizations will assemble for routine sessions. Star of Hope class members will be in session at the South Main Street church, and Mrs. J. H. Sheriff, Penn avenue, will entertain Frances Willard W C. T. U. Mrs. A D. Fonkalsrud, Forest avenue, will hostess, the Amoma class of St. Matthews. Social and business meeting will be held by a number of other groups at the same time.

Wednesday.

The same evening Women of the Moose will commemorate their affiliating with the Loyal Order at a covered-dish dinner. A class of candidates will also be honored on this, the 21st anniversary of the affiliation.

Miss Hehman Bride of David T. Marantette In Quiet Service.

TWO beauty baskets and two large altar jardinieres filled with peach and white gladioli mixed with orchid stock were used on the palm banked altar of St. Peter's Catholic church this morning to form a background for the wedding of Miss Mary Lou Hehman and David T. Marantette of Detroit, Mich.

Monsignor R. C. Goebel read the nuptial high mass at 9 o'clock before the families and many friends of the couple who had gathered at the church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Hehman, 15 Western avenue, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. David T. Marantetee, sr., of Detroit, Mich.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a Woodland green costume suit fashioned from sheer wool. Natural blue fox formed the wide lapels and pockets of the suit, with which Miss Hehman wore a blouse of green and orchid tones. The ensemble was completed with hat, gloves and shoes of wheat gold. The bride wore a shoulder corsage of Cattleya orchids.

Sister Attends.

Miss Jule Marantette, the bridegroom's sister, of Detroit was the bride's only attendant. Miss Marantette's costume suit was of beige wool with the collar and front of the jacket in beige fox. The bridesmaid's accessories were of light orchid, and she carried a colonial bouquet of violets and Talisman roses.

Paul Hehman, brother of the bride, served as Mr. Marantette's best man for the ceremony.

Huckleberry fern extended from the cake down the middle of the table to bowls of white sweet peas at either end. The table was lighted with two candelabra.

The couple left, by automobile, on a short wedding trip and will take up residence about March 1 in Detroit. The bride was graduated from St Peter's high school and attended Marygrove college in Detroit. She has been doing commercial and fashion modeling there for quite some time. Clevelander Has Program Before Music Study Club

Mme. Emi de Bodoli of Cleveland was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Mansfield Music Study club in the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday evening at 8.15 o'clock,. Mme. de Bodoli, who is well-known in Cleveland music circles for her lecture-recitals, centered her talk around the program of operas to be given by the Metropolitan Opera company in Cleveland from March 27 to April 1.

Mme. de Bodoli placed the operas in their proper type, namely, Italian, French and Wagnerian, and then told the stories of them, discussed their characters and the styles of the composers. Her lecture was illustrated with vocal selections by Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine and LeMoine Derr. Mrs. A. L. Twitchell was the piano accompanist.

Mrs. Hazeltine was in charge of the program arrangements for last evening's meeting, and other arrangements were made by Miss Teressa Pfeifer, Mrs. Paul Williams, Mrs. Paul Cropper and John Grabler.

The Music Study club study group members will meet again on Monday evening at 7 o'clock at the Women's club Mrs. George Hall will serve as hostess at that time, when Mrs. Paul Watts will be in charge of the program.

A piano duet of "Rond Villa Geois" by Hummel was played by Janet and Joan Banks, and Janet Baughman played "Flight of the Eagle." A play was then presented by Mrs. W. H. Gifford. The cast of the playlet which was entitled "The Dear, Dear Children" included Miss Edith Douglas, Mrs. E. F. Malone, Mrs. A. C. Kell, Mrs. Forest Domer, Mrs. C. P. Smith, Mrs. B. M. Banks, Miss Dorothy Stephenson and Mrs. O. I. Alverson.

Movies were then shown. The committee in charge included Mr. and Mrs. Banks, Mr. and Mrs. Kell, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Calene, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black.

CHAPTER XXIX

A boat with red sails moved gracefully down the calm river. Far off was the sound of a motorboat. Up the beach Kurt could hear the merry laughter of sunburned little children in swimming.

Thinking of Alix and how much he loved her and wanted her, he stepped from the porch and walked down to the beach and then along on the sand. Alix, my little friend, my little love. . . .

His conscience jeered at him, "You blunderer! She was in your arms one night! One night there was star dust in her eyes—for you!"

He had been walking along the beach quite some distance when he heard some one calling his name loudly. Turning quickly, he looked up the bank and saw a short, stout woman with close-cropped gray hair grinning down a him.

"Tuck! Tuck Martin!" And in a moment he had climbed the bank and was beside her, shaking her hand vigorously.

"Well" Tuck said. "Do I believe my eyes! What are you doing down here? That's a nice sunburn you've got. You look as if you've been in the sun all summer. Come on up to my porch and tell me about yourself."

Kurt glanced at the white bungalow.

"You live here, Tuck?"

"Where've you been? Of course I live here," she said crisply but still grinning. "I'm just an old country woman."

"And I'm just a hermit," he said walking beside her up the narrow stone path to the porch. "I'm glad you spotted me. You're the first friend I've seen in weeks."

* ** *

He sat on the steps, filled his pipe, and puffed on it. Tuck sat in a new rocking chair and rocked back and forth.

Then she asked sharply, "Where's your wife? What are you doing being a hermit? Now. Now. Don't look so shocked. Alix told me. She didn't tell anybody else but she did tell me."

"Told you I had a wife?"

"Sure," Tuck said. She leaned forward. "Now don't tell me after all that poor child has been through that you don't have a wife!"

His dark eyes lighted. "Alix told you . . . Oh, I see!"

Tuck said, "Stop quibbling. Did you marry that actress or didn't you?"

"No. I didn't. Gina told Alix we were secretly married. But we weren't. We were never married. Gina's in Hollywood and I hope she stays there. Why. Tuck? What's that got to do with . . .

Tuck let out her breath, set her mouth grimly, and stared at him fiercely. The motion of the rocking chair ceased.

"What's that got to do with—with you and Alix? You crazy young idiot. . . . Now wait a minute. Let me get this straight."

He was standing now. "Tuck, do you mean that—that . . ."

She motioned with a strong brown hand. "Sit down and let me tell you a few things, young man. Is this going to be a pleasure, telling you what I think of you!"

"Save it. I've already told myself. Tell me . . . Tuck, tell me that Alix loves me! That's what I want to know!"

She smiled. "Of course she loves you, you young fool! She's been in love with you since the first minute she set her eyes on you. She's deeply and sincerely and crazily in love with you. What else do you want to know? Were you blind? Weren't you in your right mind?"

"No. I was blind and crazy."

"She told you she didn't care for you, didn't she? What else could she do when she thought you were married? The child had some pride. She didn't want you to think she cared. She didn't want to be on your conscience. She didn't want anything to spoil your happiness. You! Everything for you!"

"Now don't ask me why she loves you. I don't know. I don't think anybody ever does. And goodness knows you've done enough to kill it . . ."

"Go on. Give it to me. I deserve it."

Tuck said, "And you love her. Umm. . . . Nearly messed up the works, didn't you. You young people, what you do to yourselves? You down here, Alix up there eating her heart out for you, thinking you're married, bored with all the tinsel the Lawrences have given her, trying to make up her mind to marry Eddie . . ."

Her patience snapped.

"Well, what are you standing there for? What else can I tell you? You're mad about each other. What's keeping you? Get in your car and go to her as fast as you can . . ."

* * *

Rising, she held out her hand. Her voice was no longer harsh. "God bless you, Kurt. You and my Alix have all the ingredients to make happiness . . ."

He looked at her and his excited eyes were misty. Gripping her hand, he said, "Thanks. You're great, Tuck. I'm—I'm on my way, on my way—to her!"

He was gone in an instant. Her eyes followed his tall, hurrying figure. She smiled but her brown eyes had tears in them. Crying? She brushed the tears away. What nonsense to be crying! And she thought, "I brought them together. I thought my work was done when I came down here. Your work is never done. You are never too old or too finished—to serve."

* * *

Ten minutes later the black and silver car was humming along the highway. The sun had vanished and drops of rain spattered against the windshield. Kurt thought, suppose I'm too late. Suppose I've waited too long. Gina told Alix that lie. That's why she said she didn't care. Oh, but I can't be too late, Alix. You've got to wait for me! You've got to wait just a little longer, darling!"

He parked the car in the driveway outside of Ivy house and ran up the steps and opened the door just as Bernice was coming downstairs.

"Why—Kurt! What brings you . . . What s happened? You look . . ."

His eyes were looking everywhere for Alix. Darling where are you? I can't wait to see you, to tell you, to touch you, and kiss you . . .

He laughed. "You mean I look as if I jumped into these clothes? I did! You mean I look half crazy? I am! Where's Alix? Tell me where she is! I haven't time to hear a lecture. I've just heard one and I'll listen to your later. But right now I want Alix. Where is she? I love her and I want to tell her . . ."

"You love her?" Bernice asked.

His eyes pleaded. He laughed again. "Yes I love her! But don't make me wait to explain it to you please. I want Alix! I want to tell her first."

Her eyes were excited, too. "Kurt, Eddie just left here. He was looking for her, too, and he has a one-way ticket in his pocket to Chicago. He's on his way to get her final answer. Alix went out and told me she was going to lunch at Angela Dominico's . . . if you know where that is . . ."

"Do I know?" He moved away. "Kurt, what . . ."

"Haven't time to tell you. I've go to be there before Eddie!"

She called after him. "Darling, hurry! hurry! It's you she wants!"

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Feb. 19.

Sunday's horoscope may be interpreted as a most propitious one in many surprising directions. It is a time for dealing with superiors and those in power with very definite propositions for progress, promotion and preferments, offering outstanding talents and efficiency with authority and confidence. Drastic and decisive action, with romance and adventure, dominates both private and professional life.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of outstanding favoritism, with excellent talents and abilities receiving recognition and reward from elders, superiors and those in power. Both private and business life enjoy romance, adventure and signal success and satisfaction.

A child born on this day may be versatile, unusually talented and ambitious, attaining excellent place by its rare ingenuity and creative resources, perhaps dramatic or literary.

For Monday, Feb. 20.

Monday's astrological forecast is a very fortunate one, with every prospect of attaining important objectives and desired hopes and wishes. These should come, not only by direct efforts in industry and fidelity, but also by a sudden windfall, coming "from out the blue," as it were. Grasp such benefices but do not complicate them by impetuous rash or turbulent behavior. Be calm and assured as well as happy.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a great streak of luck or good fortune, coming unexpectedly and unpredictably. This may be in reward of merit or of long-continued perseverance, patience and hard work, recognition for fidelity or just a sudden whirl from the wheel of Lady Luck. In any case, maintain composure and avoid tempest, turmoil or confusion.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, unusually talented and creative, ambitious and proud. Its own effort and perhaps a stroke of luck assure it a fortunate and happy life.

SCIENTISTS HEAR LESSON ON 'MIND'

Subject Will Be Discussed Sunday In Weekly Sermon.

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous" (I Peter 3:8).

Among the citations which comprice the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, . . . I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13,14).

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I wish I were as sure of Heaven as I am of that," she said. "And—just put us out of your mind until you get back. I'll arrange that neither of us leaves this suite, and that nobody except the waiter and the chambermaid get in here on any pretense, and I'll have both eyes on them every second they're here. There'll be no dictophone or any other infernal machine installed here except over my dead body."

"Philip Veritzen—" she began, but as if her utterance of his name had invoked the presence of the man whose machinations we dreaded, the telephone pealed a period to her words.

"I suppose he's here," she whispered.

I had reached the telephone as she finished her thread-like whisper, and I nodded when I had taken down the receiver, for the hotel telephone operator promptly confirmed her conjecture.

"Mr. Veritzen calling," she said. My answer was equally laconic.

"Please tell him that I will be down immediately," I said, and clicked the receiver down upon the words. Then I arose and swiftly donned my hat and coat, lying ready to my hand, picked up my purse and the small emergency night bag without which I never travel.

"You don't expect to stay the night, do you?" Miss Whitlock asked, with a faintly dismayed expression.

"I am sure I shan't have to, if I have this bag along," I told her smiling. "But the only time I ever went anywhere without it, I expected to come back before dark, and stayed a week because of an accident and illness in the family of my hostess."

"Then don't you dare forget it," she adjured me, and with a keen glance at her, I clapped her on the shoulder.

"Don't you dare worry any more!" I warned her. "Think of the emergencies you've met! Don't let trifles like prying hotel employes affect your nerves."

She gave me an abashed grin.

"Thanks for the reminder," she said. "I was getting a bit jittery, but I shall be right as rain now. I promise you."

"I know you will," I said, trying to make my voice and smile assuring.

Mr. Veritzen rose from a big armchair in the lobby as I left the elevator, and came forward to meet me.

"Ah! Mrs. Graham!" The great man bowed over my hand with his usual impressment, and I was grateful that, in unusual deference to American customs, he did not kiss it. "You are always so prompt! I need not ask you how you are feeling. Your radiant looks tell the story of your well-being. And how is my daughter-in-law?"

The solicitude in his voice was artistically convincing, though I was sure it was feigned. But at his next query, I stiffened mentally and was suddenly wary.

"She and Miss Whitlock will surely go out today, will they not? I have secured tickets for that new play of which Mary was speaking, and have left them with a sum of money for dinner in an envelope on the manager's desk."

With the determination to do nothing which might possibly arouse his suspicions, I fibbed enthusiastically.

"Oh! I am sure they will love to go," I said.

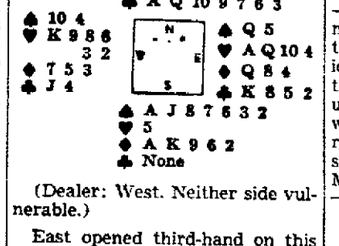
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THREE SUITS TO AVOID

When the declarer had bid two suits and his partner another, those are usually three suits to avoid when selecting your opening lead against a slam from a more or less worthless hand. If you lead the dummy's suit, you are likely to help set it up early for discards. If you lead either of the declarer's, you may put an honor of your partner's under the hammer. You are generally better off in this spot to lead the unbid suit, especially if your partner had bid it, regardless of whether or not the declarer or his partner later made a cue-bid of it indicating a probable blank.



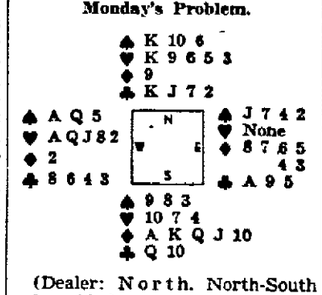
(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

East opened third-hand on this deal with 1-Heart, South bid 1-Spade, West passed, North bid 2-Clubs, South 3-Diamonds, then West 3-Hearts, making it perfectly clear that he had a fine fit but a generally bad hand, since he had passed on his first chance to help the suit. North next called 4-Clubs, East passed, and the very aggressive bidder in the South now saw a chance to try for a top score in the duplicate in which they were playing. He made a cue-bid of 4-Hearts.

North thereupon made a preference bid between South's suits, 4-Spades and South went to 6-Spades. West fell for South's stratagem. Deciding that South was probably void of hearts, he fumbled around among the other suits and then decided upon the diamond 7. As a consequence South made a grand slam. The diamond J brought the Q and A. A spade to the K was followed by the club A, discarding the heart 5, and the rest of the tricks were trumps and diamonds.

If there had been some other suit which neither North nor South had bid, West might have been justified in being frightened away from hearts by the cue-bid, but not when every other lead seemed bad anyway, from the bidding.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

What bidding would you recommend on this monstrous misfit deal?

THEATERS

"Wings of the Navy."

THE short subject at the Ohio for the week's program—starting Sunday and running through next Friday—should be as interesting as the main feature. It is "Lincoln In The Whitehouse," and is one of the series of patriotic short subjects made by Warner Brothers, which has included "Patrick Henry" and the "Signing of The Constitution." Frank McGlynn plays the role of Lincoln. The picture is in color. The feature is "Wings of The Navy," which has naval aviation as its background. Romance has a prominent part in telling the story; a romance which involves Olivia de-Havilland and George Brent and John Payne as brothers.

* * *

"Fast and Loose."

Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell make their fourth picture appearance together in "Fast and Loose," a comedy with a mystery theme. They have previously appeared in "Fast Company," Night Must Fall" and "Live, Love and Learn." In their current film—which opens with a midnight matince today at the Madison—they get into a series of mysterious crimes when Montgomery tries to buy some rare old volumes, and Miss Russell, as his wife, complicates things in a merry and slightly dumb manner. Besides the comedy feature, the Madison will show Walt Disney's color short. "Ferdinand The Bull," which depicts the classical bovine at his flower-smelling best.

* * *

"Woman Doctor."

Shown for the first time in Mansfield on Sunday and for the first of the week will be "Woman Doctor" with Frieda Inescort, beautiful stage star, and Henry Wilcoxon, with little Sybil Jason in a featured role. Miss Inescort's poise and charm are not put on for stage and screen appearances but are a part of this young woman who was formerly social secretary to Lady Astor of England. She plays a woman doctor so wrapped up in her work that her lonely husband finds comfort in the arms of another woman. Also on the Park bill will be "The Mad Miss Manton" with Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda.

* * *

"Too Hot to Handle."

Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Walter Pidgeon romp through a series of mad escapades in "Too Hot To Handle," which carries them from China to the jungles of South America. Gable and Pidgeon are rival newsreel camera men and Miss Loy is a stunt pilot who becomes the butt of the feud between the two men. Wild adventures follow them into the jungles where they are saved from savages by a Hollywood trick. "Freshman Year" begins a new series of stories about college life, with a cast of attractive young people. Both films will be shown at the Ritz.

* * *

"Gambling Ship."

Robert Wilcox and Helen Mack appear in the dramatic film "Gambling Ship" at the Majestic Sunday and Monday. This is the story of a luxurious gambling ship anchored out in the ocean and run by the attractive Miss Mack. Wilcox is an under-cover man for the government. Comedy for the bill is provided by "You're Only Young Once," one of the Judge Hardy series, with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney and Cecilia Parker. The gals, Ann Rutherford and Eleanor Lynn, teach Mr. Rooney a thing or two, or maybe three, on the Hardy's vacation.

FILE 4 SUITS

Autoist, 2 Passengers Seek $16,500 Damages.

An automobile accident on route 42 in Windsor last Oct. 21 had resulted today in the filing of four suits totaling $16,400 in common pleas court against Miriam K. Stauffer, R. D. 2, Mansfield.

The actions were filed by Marcus L. Riggs, 54 Superior street, driver of one of the cars, and Sam Guarino and David Gustafson, both of Mansfield, who were riding with him.

Two suits for a total of $11,500 were filed by Gustafson who said he suffered a skull fracture in the crash and was confined in General hospital for two months after the accident. Riggs asks $4,100 for personal injuries and damage to his car, while Guarino seeks $800 for his injuries.

The plaintiffs, represented by Attys. John C. O'Donnell and G. W. Marriott, contend the defendant made a left turn from the highway in front of Riggs' car causing it to collide with her automobile and then crash into a tree.

Wide-Open Battle Seen In County Tournament, With Madison's Rams Ruling as Favorites; Butler, Lucas Listed Among Major Threats.

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THIS year's county high school basketball tournament opens on the Mansfield hardwood Tuesday night with more "dark horses" than have ever before appeared in the neighborhood elimination

Madison, undoubtedly, will go into the tournament the favorite on the strength of its victory in the county league, but the Rams, who have slackened their pace since the early months of the season, are not sure bets.

Madison followers must consider Butler, Union, Lexington, Lucas, Ontario, Shiloh and Plymouth as major threats to the Rams' ambitions. For one thing, Madison is situated in a tough bracket, and the Rams must prove themselves to be a good tournament team to plow through the competition

The Rams' first foe Tuesday is Plymouth, which is in second place in the Twin-Valley league, and if they win this one they face another tough assignment with Shiloh, which is expected to take Adario without trouble in the other games on Tuesday's opening program.

Victories over Plymouth and Shiloh would lift Madison into the semi-finals, with either Butler or Union the opponent, and anything could happen then

From this corner, the tournament looks like a toss-up, with the team that gets the breaks going through to the championship It may be Madison or one of the five or six other contenders, but which one it will be we can't say Neither can you, for that matter.

Lucas has the size and scoring power, with Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford the spearheads, to go far in the tournament; Butler, which is the defending champion, is well balanced with plenty of scoring punch, Union, Lexington and Ontario have always been strong tournament teams, and Shiloh and Plymouth cannot be disregarded in the reckoning as their records are the best compiled by any tournament teams.

* * *

THE season records show Shiloh and Plymouth heading the percentage column with 10 victories against three defeats apiece, Butler has tallied the most points, 624 in 19 games for an average of 33, and Shiloh boasts the most pretentious defensive record, having held its opponents to an average of 19 points per game. Tygers Seek Fifth Straight Win Tonight

Tackle Shelby Cagers

Men of Murphy May Find Whippets Tired From Heavy Week of Play.

MANSFIELD'S old rivals from Shelby come to the Tygers' lair tonight to strut their basketball wares.

Tonight's appearance marks the next to the last on the home court this season, and a goodly number of followers are expected to be attracted by the rivalry between these two schools

Tygers' Record Better.

Coach Russ Murphy's men will go into the fracas the favorite Not only because they took the Whippets into camp in their first meeting, but due to the Tyger team's superior record

However, Mansfield's physical edge is expected to be lessened to some extent by inspired play by the Whippets

Shelby, which usually produces its best basketball, or football, for that matter, against the Tygers, has had a tough week, but expects to have enough in reserve to press the Men of Murphy

Mansfield will be in better shape for the tussle as the Tygers have not been in action since last week, while the Whippets will be playing their fourth game in eight days.

Although their play has been inconsistent, the Tygers are expected to unleash all the scoring power that they have at their command in an attempt to keep their current winning streak intact

With four straight victories dangling from their belts, Murphy's Tygers are anxious to extend the string in preparation for two tough tussles next week with Massillon and Canton McKinley

Shelby has developed into a stronger ball club since the Tyger's first victory, with Frank Benham, a major scorer, and Murphy is not underestimating the Whippets.

'Usual Lineups'—Murphy.

The Tygers played several practice tilts this week, and Murphy was well-pleased with the performances of a number of the bench-warmers But Murphy announced today that the usual starting lineup of Tommy Scott, Jack Dugger, Dave Shelley, Jake Lyons and Bill Herpich would get the call

The reserve teams of the two schools are scheduled to set off the fireworks at 7 15 p m, with the varsity game going on at 8 30.

Shelby Takes Short End of 49-31 Score

Whippets Handed First Loss In Three Games.

SHELBY—Shelby high's Whippets went out after their third straight victory last night, but were unable to successfully halt a determined Marion Harding last-half rally, and found themselves on the short end of a 49 to 31 count in a North Central Ohio conference tussle

The Shelby outfit, which defeated Crestline earlier this week for its second straight triumph, had command on the situation until the intermission, but its defense bogged down in the crucial moments

After battling through a 11-all deadlock in the initial period, the Whippets, who invade Mansfield high tonight for a battle with the Tygers, forged ahead, 21 to 16, at halftime

But the Presidents, who share first place in the conference race with Mt Vernon, soon found the range to hand Shelby one of its most decisive setbacks of the season. Harding held a 31 to 24 advantage at the end of the third frame

Hudson set the individual tempo with 16 points, with Bob Fireoved pacing the Whippets with 12 points

Marion smothered the Shelby seconds, 38 to 14, in the prelim.

Say, Let's All Ski!

Everybody — including Grandma and Baby Jane and Little Johnny — is on skis this year, according to the U. S. Forest Service.

From Old Forge, N. Y., comes a report that Charles Jennette, 101 years old, is an active skier.

And, at the other extreme, ski schools for youngsters who can barely toddle have been established all over the snow area.

U S sporting enthusiasts, it is estimated, this year will spend more on winter sports than they will spend on tennis or hunting

Nor is skiing a localized sport. Skiers are active throughout the northern U. S. in Canada, and even in Hawaii.

All of this means a busy winter for the Forest Service, which must locate ski runs, build shelters and first-aid stations, and provide foresters as guides and guards

Sexton Flips Curly to Win Armory Bout

Takes Headline Match After Losing First Fall.

Although losing the first fall, Frank Sexton claimant of the Ohio light-heavyweight title demonstrated his superiority over Sailor Bill Curly of Gloucester, Mass, in the main match on last night's Quality club presentation on the Armory mat before a well-filled house

The big Sedalia, O farmer and Curly made up in their bout for what the supporting card lacked

It was a free-swinging imbroglio in which a little boxing was mixed with the wrestling, and the spectators showed their appreciation of their efforts by giving both grapplers big ovations at the finish

Curly, a newcomer to the Mansfield mat, took the first fall in 15 minutes with a body scissors and headlock but Sexton evened the fall count in five minutes with a body whirl

The final and deciding fall went 15 minutes before Sexton took a leaf from the Great Mephisto's bag of tricks and applied the "piledriver" to win

The semi-final match lacked the fireworks of the main bout Jack Zarnas of Youngstown, formerly of Mansfield won in straight falls over Cleve Welch, Cleveland light-heavyweight A crab hold won the first fall for Zarnas in 22 minutes He climaxed the match when he reversed a toe-hold in 15 minutes

In the opening bout, rough-and-ready Pasha Beirman Bey of Turkey tossed Gorilla Poggi, an importation from Argentine, in 20 minutes with an arm lock

Gains Fourth Place

Ontario Triumphs Over Union, 40 to 28, to Step Ahead of Lexington Club.

COACH ORVILLE KIBLER'S Ontario high cagers held down fourth place in the Richland county league race today, but whether they will remain there depends on whether the postponed Lexington-Bellville game will be played

The Warriors gained a half-game lead over the Minutemen by walloping a dangerous Union high combine, 40 to 28, last night on the losers' hardwood, but Lexington can tie Ontario for fourth place if the Bellville game is played and wins

Ontario didn't waste any time in making sure of its victory last night The club started out on a scoring spurt in the opening stanza to obtain an advantage that was never seriously threatened

The Kibler-coached outfit forged ahead, 16 to 8, in the initial quarter, led 23 to 16 at the intermission and resumed play in the fourth period holding at 31 to 24 lead

Matt Hagei, who was shifted from the center post to a guard berth last night, led both clubs in the scoring column with 14 points. His brother, Henry, replaced him at the pivot post Harold Tolles topped the invaders with 12 points He was the only Union player to secure more than one goal

The Ontario seconds edged the Union reserves, 17 to 13,

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

Among the first duties of the new Conservation Commissioner Don Waters was direction of the distribution throughout Ohio of 40,000 Northern Missouri cotton tail rabbits, the last of which were received and are being liberated in central Ohio counties The cost of these rabbits, including carriage and handling, runs around 50c each, division attaches figure.

In southern Ohio hilly counties where bird shooting is scarce, a quota of 540 rabbits each was fixed; in northeast counties the average was 450; in the northwest and north central areas, where pheasant shooting flourishes, the placements were 372 per county.

Ninety per cent of breeding stock were released in open hunting areas. Ten per cent were used in stocking newly established protected propagation areas

At the New York Sportsmen's Show, now in progress, many experts in various sports endeavors, will 'do their stuff.' Perhaps the most unique is "Slingshot" Charley, from Reelfoot Lake Tenn, who will show just how accurate his favorite weapon can be in the hands of an expert

Give a thought to tomorrow's sportsmen the youth of today. Each season witnesses new thousands of them grown to manhood and swelling the ever-growing ranks of those who delight in the pleasures of gun, rod and reel The guidance of the vast army of youths into the paths of true sportsmanship is a tremendous and vitally important task . . . and one in which we grown-ups should all take a hand

The Ohio House passed the bill of Ralph Lutz (D) of Richland County, by a vote of 107 to 12, which would prohibit the sale of imported or domestic hares or rabbits, dead or alive, at any time in the state This would stop importation of dead rabbits which are sold by the thousands and also give added protection to native stock, which has found a way to the markets.

Greulich, Crawford, Lucas Cubs' Basket Twins, Share League Scoring Title With 137 Points

LUCAS high school's Cubs today claimed the individual scoring champions in the Richland county league.

Tom Greulich who won the point title last season and Bob Crawford Coach Alfred Axe's nifty scoring twins share the champion ship with 137 points apiece

Several postponed games remain on the league schedule, but there is no danger of the pair being dislodged In fact it is very doubtful whether any of the postponed games will be played as the county tournament gets under way next week and the results of the remaining tilts have no important bearing on the standings

Greulich accounted for 55 baskets and 27 free throws to retain a share of the title he annexed last year His running mate accumulated 60 field goals and 17 free throws

Next in the scoring list is Matz Hager of Ontario who finished with 106 points one ahead of Harold Tolles of Union Players who scored 10 or more points follow

NOTICE!

Because, through no fault of its own, The News-Journal has been printing the comic strip "Tailspin Tommy" ahead of the regular release dates, appearance of the feature has been temporarily suspended.

However, the comic strip has not been discontinued.

It will reappear with no interruption in the continuity of the story on Saturday, Feb. 25, in the week-end green tabloid, in which it will appear thereafter.

The new and popular strip, "Blondie," now appears on this page daily.

TRADING FORCES STEP LIGHTLY IN MIXED MART

Steels, Aircrafts Again Hold Attention on Exchange; Rails In Demand.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market tapped out a soft-shoe rally today with steels and aircrafts providing the principal buying syncopation.

While Wall Street had a fairly optimistic brand of news for inspiration, trading forces apparently inclined to step lightly in the matter of enlarging commitments pending more assurances the Spanish civil war would end without a general flare-up between the so-called democratic and dictator nations of Europe.

Gains at the best ran to a point or so. Profit taking chipped down top marks in many instances at the close. Volume was comparatively small throughout, with transfers approximating 400,000 shares for the two-hour proceedings.

Among an assortment of new 1938-39 highs were those posted for United Aircraft, Bayuk Cigars, N. Y. City Omnibus and Omnibus Corp.

In the advancing division were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Spiegel Inc., General Motors, Chrysler and U. S. Rubber.

Bonds exhibited a better tone, with rails in demand. Commodities were narrowly higher.

Carrier shareholders derived cheer from estimates of transportation observers that January earnings of the country's major railroads were substantially above those of a year ago and, in some cases, at or near levels not achieved in several years.

That public spending is broadening throughout the country was seen in the survey of the federal reserve board for the week ended Feb. 11. The board found the year-to-year recession in department store sales narrowed to 2 per cent from 6 per cent in the preceding week.

'Up to Our Necks' In Politics, Townsend Testifies

PENSION CHIEF DOUBTS PLAN WILL WIN O.K.

But Indicates He'll Drive on Till $200 Program Gets Future Approval.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Dr. Francis E. Townsend told the house ways and means committee yesterday that his old-age pension movement had dipped into politics "up to our necks."

Some committeemen said the Townsend organization had moved within range of the corrupt practices act, which required reports on political contributions and expenditures.

But Rep. Duncan (D-Mo.), who raised the issue at a public hearing, said he had no intention to press it.

"You've got to show me where I've violated the act," Dr. Townsend told Rep. McCormick (D-Mass.)

"Not at all," McCormick shot back. "You've got to show us. A very clear case has been made out showing that you have been engaged in politics."

Spends Day On Stand.

The elderly physician had spent the whole day answering questions and explaining his proposal for federal pensions of up to $200 a month for all persons over 60.

He said he had strong doubts that congress would approve his bill, but insisted that $200 was only a start, that he would attain that and then press on for an even larger amount to raise standards of living.

Duncan asked the doctor whether "raising money to educate the people of the country to his plan has been a major activity."

"You might call it that," Townsend replied.

After committee members had hammered away for some time for a figure, the witness asserted that probably $3,000,000 had been collected over five years. He called "utterly untrue" an estimate of $5,800,000 given the committee previously by Rep. Sheppard (D-Calif.)

After asserting that President Roosevelt should be commended for spending, but not for his spending methods, Townsend remarked:

"Frugality ought to be an obsolete word in our vocabularies today."

Wins County Test, In Line For New Laurels From D.A.R.

Maxine Hartmann, Mansfield Senior high student, was over the first hurdle in a contest that may take her either to a state D. A. R. meeting in Toledo or the national convention in Washington.

She was adjudged Richland county winner in the "good citizenship" contest sponsored by Mary Washington and Jared Mansfield chapters of the D. A. R. recently, with a grade of 120 out of a possible 140.

Miss Hartmann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hartmann, 36 Stewart avenue. Her father was formerly principal of John Simpson Junior high school and was identified with the city's public schools for many years.

The next two highest in the contest were Elna R. Hinckley, Lucas, 117; and Charlotte Hughes, Union Rural High, 115. Other winnews from the county high schools were Barbara Mae Schwier, Madison township high; Annabelle Yarger, Bellville; and Doris Dawson, Shiloh.

Tests on good citizenship questions were given early this month by Boyd Robinson, superintendent of county schools. The contests were conducted all over the state. The highest scorer will be given a free trip to Washington in April, while the five highest winners in the state, will be taken to Toledo to attend the state D. A. R. meeting next month.

HURT IN HER 2ND FALL OF YEAR

Woman Breaks Shoulder Shortly After Suffering Broken Hand.

Mansfield marksmen now know it is not necessary to give any quarter to women. They learned this to their regret the other night on the Mansfield indoor rifle range when Mrs. W. R. Rhinhart of Galion led the visiting team to a victory over the home town target shooters. Mrs. Rhinhart, who is one of the outstanding marks-women in the state, compiled a better score than any of the male members of the two teams, which include the outstanding marksmen in the two cities.

Despite winter flurries now and then it begins to look as if the groundhog saw nothing but sombre skies—in this vicinity at least—on Feb. 2, for there are unmistakable signs of an early spring. Boys in the vicinity of Gleasner avenue and Carpenter road were flying their kites this morning, while others were playing marbles where the sidewalks were clear of snow.

Many men who are now extremely conservative will recognize something familiar about the story of a boy told at sheriff's office this morning by a father residing on South Main street road. The parent reported the boy missing at 1 a. m. and was very much upset because his son had never been out so late before. But at 4 a. m. he called again to report that the youth had been found sleeping in the haymow. It seems that the boy earned some money yesterday, decided to go out on a spree last night by taking in a picture show. He didn't get home until almost midnight and boy-like was afraid to go in the house. So he snuggled down in the hay where he was discovered during the search.

The new two-way radio equipment in police squad cars already has served to "rescue" two officers. Early this week and on the morning of the heavy snow, E. C. Fuller, identification officer, and Detective Lee Remy started out along the Newville road in search of the 10-year-old school girl who had been reported missing. The cruiser "floundered" in the mud and snow when they pulled off the road to help someone else. It suddenly occurred to them that they could call for help over the two-way radio in the car. Another cruiser was sent out to rescue them as the result of the radio "appeal" to the police station.

FUND HITS $430

Ward Gives Report on Infantile Paralysis Campaign.

The President's Birthday ball and the March of Dimes in Mansfield produced approximately $430 to fight infantile paralysis, M. D. Ward, jr., Mansfield chairman of the committee, reported today.

Ward's report does not include receipts from other sections of the county. The March of Dimes, conducted by placing small coin containers in schools, business establishments and industrial firms, brought in $258 as compared with $171 from the birthday ball on Jan. 21.

The city's industrial plants collected $99 in the March of Dimes, while the schools were second with $94 and the retail firms third with $64.

Half of the county proceeds will go to the National Foundation to combat infantile paralysis and the other half will stay in the county to be used in the campaign.

DUCE INSPECTS HIS BODYGUARDS

Threat on Life by Assassin Leaves Dictator Unworried, Rome Reports.

(By United Press)

ROME—Premier Benito Mussolini, completely undisturbed by what was said in authoritative quarters to have been the eighth attempt against his life, reviewed the 200 picked stalwarts of his "Black Musketeers," pledged to defend his life with their own.

The ceremony was private and hundreds of plain clothes men kept the public out of the Pincio Gardens where it was held.

Thousands of persons gathered as near as they could, despite the rain, to watch the ceremony and cheer Mussolini, in ignorance of the reported attempt against him. It was officially denied that his life had been the object of a madman who shot one of Mussolini's detective bodyguards when he was challenged outside the Premier's home.

The "Black Musketeers," in their uniforms which are black from boots to tasseled Fascist caps "except for a white skull and crossed bones on front of the caps and 500 picked Fascist militiamen on the Rome garrison participated in this morning's ceremony.

Mussolini pinned three silver and seven bronge medals on the chests of seven Musketeers for bravery in the Ethiopian and Spanish Civil wars, and a posthumous silver medal on the chest of a father of one Musketeer killed in Spain.

Then the Musketeers and militiamen paraded past Mussolini, marching with the "Passo Romano," the Fascist version of the German army goose step. Mussolini, in fine fettle, showed his pleasure at the precision of the marchers.

The singing of Fascist hymns closed the ceremony.

Militiamen and Musketeers cheered wildly as Mussolini left.

'QUIET HEART' CAN BE ACQUIRED, HEALTH SCHOOL LECTURER SAYS

Have you ever heard of the "quiet heart" which is a thing much to be desired by the Chinese because it adds years to the span of life?

Dr Alexander Davis, health and beauty expert, who will conduct The News-Journal charm school Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Senior High school auditorium, will explain the "quiet heart," its influence on life and health, in one of his lectures which deals with relaxations. A person who is fortunate enough to have the "quiet heart" seldom dies of heart attacks or apoplexy or suffers from diseases of the nerves. It is one of the things that can be acquired, he maintains.

And did you know that a round-shoulder-stomach-out posture not only takes a woman definitely out of the glamor class, but that it starts functional disorders that lead in time to chronic diseases? Proper posture and poise will be subjects that Dr. Davis will discuss in his first lecture Monday at 2 p. m.

Dr. Davis, whose home is in Miami, Fla., and who is registered with the Florida department of health, has devoted years to study and research in matters pertaining to the mental, physical and metaphysical phases of man's well being.

Charm, according to Dr. Davis' theory, is the natural result of glowing health, beauty and mental attitude, and all of these things, he points out, can be controlled by one's self. And beauty, you can be sure, is not skin deep, contrary to popular belief, but goes to the very nerve centers, blood streams and brain cells.

The health and beauty lectures and demonstrations will be open to the public on Monday and Wednesday. Tuesday will be for women only.

SUGGESTS AMERICANS SHOULD ORGANIZE TO BOOST AMERICA

"It's about time that 100 per cent Americans organize to promote the interests of America," Louis Bromfield, novelist, told the members of Constitution chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, last night at their annual observance of Washington and Lincoln days anniversaries at First Methodist church.

Dean E. G. Mason of Ashland college, who was also a speaker, pointed out that the American Constitution did not represent the thoughts and theories of the small group of men who wrote it, but fundamental American principles and thoughts that had been developed over a period of years.

About 75 persons attended the supper meeting, to which members of the Mary Washington and Jared Mansfield chapters of the D. A. R. had been invited.

Bromfield was introduced by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, a former president of Constitution chapter. The novelist told the group that it was not enough to be thankful that we had been born Americans, but that we must be willing to fight to preserve the American principles and privileges, and to fight to keep all of the alien "isms" out of America.

Enlarging on his suggestion to organize Americans for America, he said, "Everything else in America has been organized for its own protection and to promote its own interests, so why not an organization of 100 per cent Americans to promote the interests of America?"

Dean Mason, who was presented by J. Leo Hartmann, president of the chapter, talked on the American Constitution.

"The Constitution does not represent the thoughts and theories of a few men who had a part in writing it," he pointed out, "but incorporates thoughts and principles that had developed over a period of years. Today a great many people regard it as sacred and unchangeable; others believe that it is elastic and can be changed at will, but as a matter of fact, the 21 amendments which have been made since it was written, have not materially changed the basic principles of it."

Representatives of the two D. A. R. chapters were presented and spoke briefly. They were Mrs. A. C. Tuttle, regent of the Jared Mansfield chapter, and R. G. Averill, who spoke for his wife, who is regent of Mary Washington chapter and who is ill.

Also on the program were solos by Arthur Boyce, with Mrs. Elsie Ireland at the piano.

HURT WHEN CAR STRIKES TRAIN

Ashlander, 63, Injured Early Today; Frost on Windows Blamed.

ASHLAND—George Swineford, 63, was severely hurt early today when he drove his car into a moving Erie freight train on Route 96, three miles west of Ashland.

The accident occurred at 5:30 a. m. today, while Swineford was on his way home after taking a nephew, Clevert Swineford, to his home west of the city. Although there were no witnesses, members of the family believed frost on the windows of the car prevented Swineford from seeing the train in time to stop.

Swineford was taken to his home. Doctors said he suffered severe body bruises and cuts but apparently no broken bones.

POLICE SEIZE MANIAC AFTER TAVERN HOLDUP

Dozen Chicagoans Terrorized As Gunman Wounds Patron, Flees With $75.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—A holdup man who was captured last night after he shot a patron and terrorized a dozen others in a northside tavern was identified by police today as William Blatz, one of five men who escaped Jan. 14 from the Ohio hospital for criminally insane at Lima, O.

He was arrested by a police squad who had been notified of the shooting by a married couple who had trailed him.

Fires Warning Shot.

Witnesses said Blatz was standing in the tavern when he suddenly produced a revolver. He fired a warning shot into the floor as he ordered the patrons to get back into the room. He fired another shot into the floor near where a group of patrons was standing. The bullet struck Richard Russell, 35, in the left ankle. Then he took $75 from the cash register and selected an overcoat from a hanger on the wall. As he fled he slugged an incoming patron, Robert Goatley.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warnes, who were sitting outside in their parked automobile, saw the robber get into a taxicab. They trailed him until they sighted a police squad. Warnes hurriedly told the police about the holdup.

The police overtook the cab and arrested Blatz. They found the revolver and loot in his possession. He remained unidentified at detective headquarters until a check had been made of his fingerprints by the bureau of identification.

He declined to talk about himself.

"I can't tell you a thing," he said. "I'm a two-time loser. You'll find out about me soon enough."

SALES TAX GAIN CONTINUES HERE

County Collections Again Run Ahead of 1938 Figures.

For another week—that ending Feb. 4—sales tax collections in Richland county continued to run ahead of the 1938 pace for the same period, and for the year to date as compared with the preceding year.

Not That It Matters

Movies Not Only Cost Too Much But They Persist In Ignoring Historical Facts

—By JANE WILLIAMS

LET'S talk about the "moom pitchers." It's a subject that, like the weather and an appendectomy, you can always fall back on when the conversation becomes punch-drunk, or dead on its feet.

I like motion pictures. I liked 'em even when I had to "cover" eight of them a week, good, bad and indifferent. I've liked 'em ever since I helped my schoolmate make the "noise effects" back of the screen in her father's nickelodeon.

And even today when I prefer "in the flesh" shows to the movies, I still believe that the industry is justified in its slogan "The Movies Are Your Best Entertainment"—at least, they are the best medium of entertainment because they combine music, drama, action and natural settings that are not possible on the legitimate or concert stage.

But I have two complaints to register against the industry as a whole.

* * *

THE first one is that movies cost too much: too much to produce, too much to buy as entertainment for the individual. The whole industry is off balance from a financial standpoint. If the industry would clean house, from the producer and all of his cousins right down to the $5,000-a-week stars, and pay salaries that are commensurate with their talent and ability, the industry could cut the cost of production in half and pass the saving on to the consumers.

It isn't necessary for stars to have pink marble swimming pools in order to entertain the public; it may be fun but it isn't essential that a director or executive support two or three or four ex-wives and families. If they would just cut down on little things like that the cost of movies could be reduced a lot from the 40, 50 and 60 cents charge per individual consumer. If two people go to a first-run movie, they must spend almost a dollar. At least 84 cents practically ruins a dollar. If there are children in the family, the cost increases.

And if the cost were decreased, "your best entertainment" would be available to a great many more people.

* * *

AS FOR the second complaint, I've howled against the moon many times on it. But I was particularly incensed this week at the production labeled "Jesse James," which is a glaring example of what the movies do to undermine what a kid learns in school. The text books teach a child one thing and then he goes to the movies and sees—and remembers—an entirely different version of history.

The picture was most entertaining and beautifully done—but it wasn't about the early American bad man, Jesse James. About all that the pictured Jesse had in common with the hillbilly who went on a rampage during the Civil war, was a horse and two guns.

* * *

JESSE JAMES didn't start his career because of what the railroads did to his mother; he was an all-round tough customer when he joined up with the guerilla chieftain, Quantrell, during the Civil war, and he wasn't a romantic hero, nor a Robin Hood who gave his loot to the poor. He was merely a pioneer antecedent of John Dillinger, Al Capone and the other racket boys.

Hollywood will make a lot of money from "Jesse James"—and a lot of small boys will go through life believing that Jesse was a hero who got a terrific kicking around.

Then there was "Suez" which showed the engineer DeLesseps as a romantic young chap with his "dream girl" beside him as he viewed his completed canal. But did it show what history teaches—that he was 52 years old and had a wife and 17 children when he finished the canal? It did not. That wouldn't have been good "box-office."

The motion picture industry hasn't grown up, despite its sometimes fine productions and good entertainment.

* * *

THE Olson and Johnson show, which Mansfield saw last year, is still packing in the cash customers on Broadway and will probably have a terrific run during the New York Exposition this year. Europeans probably think we are plain nuts to stand in line and pay cash to see "Hellzapoppin" when they see it over there for nothing.

* * *

WHAT price beauty? In the case of the toe-less and heel-less shoes of the past two years, the price is big feet, according to a New York shoe stylist. She says that the two years toes have been out have made women's feet a full half-size longer, and that feet are getting bigger all the time. In the last few years the standard size shoes for women has increased from 5½ to 7.

Oh, well, big feet may not be glamorous, but they get you places. Look at Greta Garbo.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Against Human Nature to 'Take It' But Everyone Likes to Give Criticism

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Harold Ickes—don't go, this one isn't about the press—said in that speech of his last week that the modern newspaper publisher could dish it, but couldn't take it. This is a phrase which sacrifices precision for effect. The truth is that the publishers can take it, but don't enjoy it, and the answer is, "Aren't we all?"

The case was stated better a long time ago in a fight at the old Garden when one of those marvelous master fighters of the early '20's, was punching the ears off some poor, stubborn dummy, and a customer yelled, "In the belly, he doesn't like 'em ther." The winning fighter calmly tied up the other guy's arms for an instant and asked, "Do you know anyone that does?"

Of course, nobody like it—neither Ickes, nor Mr. Roosevelt, nor the New Deal, nor the Republicans, nor Hitler, nor the Communists. Do you?

Ickes himself likes to dish it, but he squeals like a pig under a gate when he has to take it. Did you hear him yell about the flank attack? He was thinking about the story of his rest cure in the Naval hospital in Washington at $3.75 a day under a law which merely says that a naval doctor shall be in attendance on the congress. It doesn't say that the members shall have hospital treatment for less than the cost of a pitcher-and-bowl flop in a flea bag out around town. And, moreover, Ickes is, by no stretch of the imagination, a member of congress.

* * *

Well, maybe it is a flank attack, but if Ickes is entitled to such service at such a price, it is no attack at all.

But since when has Ickes felt that way about the propriety of the flank attack? I don't recall any protests from him about a flank attack when the administration flaunted the income taxes of anti-New Dealers in retaliation for their opposition to the court thing. That was a flank attack for you.

Lately a prominent Catholic publication has been roaring "censorship!" because Coughlin has been silenced for refusing to submit his copy beforehand. But the same publication silenced anti-Catholic radio orators a few years ago, and its protests then could serve as models for the anti-Coughlin protests now. "Bigotry!" was the cry against the anti-Catholic propaganda, and "bigotry!" now is the cry against Coughlin's anti-Semitism. "Freedom of speech" was the anti-Catholic reply then, and "freedom of speech" is cried again today by those who support Coughlin.

* * *

Employers organized, but fought organization by employes. Employers armed, but yelled "anarchy!" when strikers did so, too.

Then organized employes used terrorist methods against nonstrikers and unioneers who themselves had coerced and intimidated American citizens in New York went to Jersey City to defend civil liberties. The principle involved in Frank Hague's case was exactly the same that was at stake in New York, and the method differed only in degree. Hague, in Jersey, had the muscle to go the limit. That was the only difference.

Of course, publishers like to dish it, but don't like to take it. Nobody does. That would be against human nature.

BAPTISTS MARK ANNIVERSARY AT THREE SERVICES

Rev. Braker to Have Same Topic Sunday as That Used At Dedication In 1929.

The 10th anniversary of the dedication of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be observed during three services Sunday by the Congregation.

Observances will be held during the church school hour at 9:15 a. m., the worship service at 10:30 a.m., and an evening service at 7:30, when the senior choir will present the cantata "Esther," by Bradbury.

Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the church since the dedication, will speak on the subject, "The Christ of This Church" at the morning service. This is the same subject Dr. J. C. Massee used when the church was dedicated 10 years ago.

The original dedicatory programs will be distributed as souvenirs. P. M. Wooden, chairman of the bord of deacons, and Charles Abele, church school superintendent, will take part in the service. Music will include the singing of Mozart's "Gloria" from the "12th Mass," by the senior choir, directed by Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music, and a vocal solo, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" by Mrs. Frank.

12 Take Solo Parts.

Solo parts will be taken by 12 members of the senior choir during the presentation of the cantata "Esther" in the evening. Soloists will be Edna May Boswell, Mrs. Sherman Skaggs, Willamine Hoffman, Gladys Shingleton, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rodey, Mary Lou Balliet, Mrs. Lawrence Frank, Willis E. Wygant, jr., Frederick Jackson, Paul Seifert, and Stanley Balliet. Other members of the choir will be Mrs. Wayne Williams, Mrs. Howard Crowe, Mrs. George Vawter, Thelma Vawter, Ruth and Eloise Husung, Clara Belle Merryman, Myrle Abele, Ray Merryman, Fred Sutcliffe, Paul Gannaway and James Scroud.

The church was constructed at a cost of $220,000, and received first honorable mention in a national architectural contest in 1929. Its style is English Gothic and is constructed af varigated Bedford stone. Since its dedication there has been an increase of 160 members.

Rev. Braker came to the church following its dedication. Rev. Lawrence A. Wood was pastor during the construction period. H. J. W. Smith was chairman of the building council and S. Glenn Vinson was chairman of the building committee.

Meetings of four organizations of the church are scheduled next week. The C. H. Huston class meets at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the church. Dr. W. E. Wygant will be in charge of the program, and Charles Swisher, president, will preside.

Circle 1 meets at 1 p. m. Thursday with Mrs. Charles Keller, 123 North Mulberry street; Circle 2 at 1 p. m. Friday with Mrs. Howard Boyce, 126 Dawson avenue, and Circle 3 at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with Mrs. Charles Swisher, Beechwood boulevard.

300 at Dinner Opening Anniversary Observance.

Three hundred attended a chicken dinner at the Park Avenue Baptist church parlors last night which marked the opening of the observance of the 10th anniversary of the dedication.

During a program following the dinner, greetings and congratulatory messages were read from nonresident members and brief talks were given by several members present, and by the pastor, Rev. Hayes M. Braker, who is observing his 10th anniversary as pastor of the church.

Greetings were read by Mrs. M. E. Hulet, Charles Abele, Judge and Mrs. C. H. Huston, Miss Orinda Dickson, Mrs. Wallace Campbell, Sherman Skaggs, Mrs. Roy Crider, W. K. Dise and Charles Lake.

A. M. Colby, a member of the church board, reporting for a special finance committee, announced that $11,200 had been raised to apply towards the church building debt.

Recognition was given Mrs. M. E. Hulet who has been a member of the church for 61 years, and was the oldest member present.

A five-layer birthday cake was baked for the occasion by Mrs. Fred Therlien, jr., and was served during the dinner hour. A hymn, "O God, For Blessing's Manifold," written in commemoration of the anniversary by Mrs. C. M. Vawter, was sung during the program. Judge Huston was the toastmaster.

The dinner was served by a group of women of the church in charge of Mrs. D. C. Cole. Mrs. Russell Hammond was chairman of the kitchen, and Mrs. A. M. Colby was in charge of decorations.

BUCYRUS — Checks totaling $400 were mailed Thursday to the county's 16 townships, representing the regular distribution of excise gasoline tax money.

ASH WEDNESDAY SERVICES OPEN LENTEN SEASON

Mansfield Churches Prepare For Period of Penitence Beginning Next Week.

Mansfield churches will mark the opening of the Lenten season next week with special services beginning Ash Wednesday, Feb. 22, and continuing until Easter.

The Lenten period, one of penitence for the crucifixion of Christ, is of special significance to the Catholic and Lutheran religions, although virtually all of the churches will observe the period in some manner.

Mansfield's Lutheran churches, St. Peter's Catholic church and St. John's Evangelical church will begin the Lenten season with traditional Ash Wednesday services.

At St. Peter's, ashes from burned palm will be placed on the foreheads of members in an age-old ritual. Lenten services will be held Wednesday and Friday evening at 7:30 until Easter.

Plans Pre-Lenten Visits.

St. Luke's Lutheran church will prepare for Lent with a Pre-Lenten Friendly Visitation to be conducted by 100 members of the church tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

The visitors will be commissioned at the Sunday morning service during which Rev. Herbert S. Garnes, the pastor, will speak on "A Friendly Visitation." His topic for the Ash Wednesday service will be "Jesus of Nazareth Passeth By."

At St. Matthew's Lutheran church, the Lenten theme will be "I Believe," with the first sermon to be delivered Wednesday by Rev. C. F. Sheriff, pastor. He will speak on the topic, "I Believe In God." Services will be held each Wednesday. Harry Meier, choir director, will be in charge of the music.

Subjects to be discussed Wednesday evenings are "Come and See," "The Way of Christ," "The People Jesus Loved," "How Can I Be Jesus' Disciple?" "How to Conquer Evil," "The Power of Faith," "Victory Through Prayer."

Continuing his series of sermons on "Spiritual Messages From Bible Personalities," Rev. Gilbert will speak at 10:30 a. m. Sunday on the subject, "When People Forget God—What Then?"

The newly organized group for members of the primary department the children of the church, will hold a work and study period at 10:30 a. m. Sunday during the morning service.

Rev. D. P. Scherrer, above, of Scranton, Pa., will begin a series of revival meetings at 10:30 a. m. Sunday at Grace Gospel Tabernacle, 85 East Third street. Services will be held each evening at 7:30 except Saturday, and will continue until March 10. Rev. Scherrer has been a pastor in the eastern district of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church.

Rev. Joseph Priestly of Wooster, director of Religious Education in the Northeast Ohio Conference of Methodist churches, will be in charge of the institute. All phases of church school work will be discussed. The theme for Wednesday night will be "The Teacher's Preparation — Head and Heart"; Thursday, "Teacher's Knowledge of the Pupil," and Friday, "Teacher's Aims of Objectives."

Children's work will be emphasized the first evening, young people's work the second, and adult work the third evening. There are 11 Methodist churches in the county.

New Threat to Taxpayers.

UNLESS defeated in Congress, a bill which has been termed "the most radical, drastic and inequitable piece of tax legislation yet proposed" will become law.

This bill, introduced by Congressman Celler, of New York, would abolish the U. S. board of tax appeals, deprive 65 district and 11 circuit courts of jurisdiction in all tax matters, and create an Administrative Court for tax controversies, with appeal only to the Supreme Court.

Frequency with which tax injustices are corrected by courts now having jurisdiction in such cases makes it entirely clear that the rights of taxpayers must be protected by fair and impartial judicial procedure, rather than being entrusted to bureaucratic, political administration such as would result from the law being proposed by Congressman Celler.

It appears to be the view of some in the treasury department that taxpayers have no rights in the courts against arbitrarily assessed additional taxes, but the federal tax board, established in 1924, has accomplished its intended purpose of preventing collection of such arbitrary assessments, or subjecting taxpayers to years of expensive litigation to secure refunds.

Under the proposed law the Administrative Court would take over powers now vested in the tax board, the court of claims, and the customs courts, as well as certain authority of 21 governmental administrative agencies, with freedom to ignore precedents already established in thousands of tax cases. Under such a set-up, also, the present "conflict of opinion," frequently made a basis of appeal to the Supreme Court, would be eliminated, as in the case of the NLRB, where prior decisions and rules of evidence mean practically nothing.

As personnel on the Administrative Court, the Celler bill provides for a chief justice and 40 associate justices. Thirty of the 40 are to come from the tax board, the court of claims and the customs courts. The other ten are to be appointed by the President—but it is also stipulated that tax-appeal cases are to be heard by four judges only, and that these shall be solely from among the ten appointees of the President.

Under present procedure the tax board hears cases involving proposed additional taxes; the district court and the court of claims hear cases involving claims for refund. With the proposed Administrative Court in action, without definite restrictions, taxpayers would have little if any chance for redress of wrongs inflicted by arbitrarily assessed taxes, however unjust the assessment may be.

Danger in a bill such as this, now in the hands of the judiciary committee, is that it may be slipped through without public understanding of its import or effect, as was done when a Processing Board of Review of AAA taxes was created in 1936 as a part of the revenue act.

The tax board is quite generally recognized as performing satisfactory service along lines for which it is intended and the courts handling tax controversies have a reputation for being fearless and fair.

Whatever may be the deeper purposes of such a radical departure from present methods of protecting taxpayers against injustice, consideration of the effects is sufficient to warrant every possible effort to prevent congressional enactment of this bill, known as HR 234.

Dangerous Intersection.

ANOTHER traffic accident at the intersection of Lexington avenue and Cook road again directs attention to the danger at this particular spot, at which a number of disastrous collisions have occurred.

It is also in this section that one side of Lexington avenue is inside the city limits and the other outside—thus limiting outbound traffic to 35 miles an hour and incoming to 45-mile speed.

Speed limits mean little on Lexington avenue, however, for this thoroughfare has long been a favorite speedway for motorists.

In order that responsibility may rest where it belongs, it is repeated that at least a blinker warning of danger should be installed at the intersection of Lexington avenue and Cook road.

Revamping WPA.

SOMETHING obviously is going to happen to WPA soon, and probably something drastic. It has served a useful purpose and accomplished valuable work, in spite of legitimate criticism, but it was improvised for an emergency that was not expected to last very long.

Now it is recognized that certain public purposes served by this organization are not accidental or temporary, that the problems it was made to solve may continue a long time. So it is said that the WPA in its present form will be discontinued, but its essential functions will be carried on by a new and better organization, with a different name.

What it will amount to, we are told, is a "permanent work-reserve corps," in which it is expected that men and women will be trained for trades and an effective employment service maintained.

Two-Way Trade Needed.

CAN it be," asks a business writer, "that many Americans still think we can always ship out more goods than we bring in?"

The answer seems to be yes. We all want more trade, by which it often appears we mean more sales only, not more purchases. It doesn't seem to be understood that such a one-sided exchange of goods slowly reduces exports and so makes the situation worse.

No sooner is a Hollywood wedding referred to as "a perfect match" than there's a flare-up.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — In spite of rumors to the contrary, the latest formal reports about the Japanese mandate islands in the western Pacific say they have not been fortified in the slightest.

But these latest reports cover the situation only up to early 1937. The State Department expects more up-to-date information from Tokyo in the near future.

Reports are submitted to the State Department and to the League of Nations by Japan in compliance with treaties by which these former German islands were mandated to Japan. She was pledged under those pacts to refrain from fortifying the mandated territory. The United States insisted on that, since the islands form a blanket lying between Hawaii and the Philippines and completely surround our one tiny Guam which has been so much in the papers lately.

The treaties are still in effect, but the naval limitations treaty by which we agreed not to fortify Guam was abrogated by Japan.

* * *

Timelessness Puzzling.

IN CONTRAST to the usual line of heavy-going diplomatic notes exchanged between Japan and the United States, the reports on the mandate islands seem to have been compiled with a sort of missionary zeal. You get a picture of energetic little Japanese pouring into the islands only to find themselves baffled by the tropical lassitude of the Kanakas and Maoris, whose people had lived there peacefully for a thousand years or more.

The natives farmed little, had a few low grade pigs and lower grade cattle. Mostly they lived off the bounty of the tropics.

Reports have been published that foreigners were forbidden to visit the islands. Tokyo told the State Department that with proper passports and visas "foreigners are permitted to journey and land there unless special objections are found by the authorities." There was no intimation as to just what would be found objectionable. Americans, British, Germans, Spaniards, Dutch and French visitors were reported.

"No military or naval bases nor any fortification has ever been maintained or newly built," says the report.

Navigation facilities have been somewhat improved. At Saipan, just north of Guam, Japan spent 2,600,000 yen (about $700,000) in 1936 dredging a course through the coral reef so ships of 3,000 tons could dock in the harbor. That would accommodate a small freighter, or a destroyer, perhaps a submarine, but no cruiser or battleship.

* * *

Business Picks Up.

BY USE of subsidies Japan has established ship lines connecting the islands with Tokyo and other Japanese ports and has established aerial navigation lines, although little air traffic is reported.

Business doubled between 1933 and 1937, with Japan getting most of the $9 000,000 annual exports and delivering most of the $4,000,000 imports.

It is quite a struggle, the report says, to keep the natives going to school and to keep them from getting drunk, but movies are "exercising much good influence."

The Japanese have taken steps to end the lovely timelessness of the tropics.

"In order to cultivate among the natives the sense of time, and to encourage them to lead a well ordered life," says the report, "bells have been installed at various places to announce the time thrice a day, morning, noon, and evening."

After three centuries of Spanish, German and Japanese influence, the town natives are wearing clothes. Country boys and gals think anything but a breech clout is just a crazy modern fad.

IT MAY COME TO THIS

Supreme Court Lacks Westerner

—By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court is closer today to all-around balance in membership than ever—thanks to five Presidents and the accidents of time and history.

The retirement of Justice Louis Brandeis and President Roosevelt's prospective appointment of his successor brings within the realm of the possible an even closer trim, provided the magic wand points westward.

Balance, of course, implies vastly more than the mere party politics of a man when he gets the coveted White House nod and Senate approval.

Balance is not mandatory. It is not even required that a member of the court should be a member of the bar, but they always have been lawyers.

Every section of the nation wants a sympathetic ear on the high court—a man who understands its particular problems. Too, any minority or religious creed in the great American melting pot takes legitimate pride in the selection of one of its members for the robes that make a man a justice of the United States.

* * *

Fine Point of Division.

MOST important of all are a man's legal and economic leanings. On this count, balance in the highest court is commonly discussed on the basis of Liberalism vs. Conservatism. But the more finicky are inclined to use other terms. Some suggest the division should be made between justices who lean strongly on precedent and custom, and those who believe the Constitution is a flexible instrument admitting of social and economic experiments in government.

But, old school or new, the views of nine justices (eight at the moment) on social and economic currents have as much to do with John Q. Citizen's welfare as those of the 500-odd members of Congress and the President, for they hold the veto power over laws passed by Congress and signed by the President. Their views inevitably find their way into the fundamental law, the law that ever has had a tendency to change the fortunes of men. For, the "power to tax is the power to destroy."

Minus the successor to Brandeis, the court is even-stephen on a close decision in the fundamental law.

Regularly in the experimenters' corner are three Roosevelt appointees, Black, Reed and Frankfurter. Usually with them is Stone, a one-time Wall Street affiliate gone liberal.

On the other side are two dyed-in-the-wool precedent-followers, Butler and Reynolds, and two middle-of-the-road men, Chief Justices Hughes and Roberts. Their older records put these two pretty close to the conservative camp, but their more recent opinions indicate that they, too, are taking an experimental turn of mind occasionally.

* * *

About Even Politically.

SIMILARLY, the court is split about even in party politics. Hughes, Stone, and Roberts bear the Republican stamp, having drawn their appointments from two Republican Presidents, Coolidge and Hoover.

Reed, Black, McReynolds and Butler are Democrats. As a New Deal adviser of first rank, Frankfurter falls vaguely into that slot, too, although the record implies that he is agnostic in politics. Or at least he was before Roosevelt came to Washington.

Curiously, one Republican, Stone, and two Democrats, McReynolds (a Wilson appointee) and Butler (a Harding appointee) jumped the traces somewhere along the road. They found themselves consistently siding with strange bedfellows, so far as politics are concerned.

Sectionally, the division of the court is not quite so happy.

The East is well taken care of with New York's Hughes and Stone, Pennsylvania's Roberts, and New England's Frankfurter; Middle Americans can't kick exactly, having on the court Kentucky's Reed and McReynolds; while the South has Alabama's Black and the Northwest, Minnesota's Butler. Missing is a far westerner, explaining the present hue and cry for somebody farther west of the Mississippi than Minnesota. If such an appointment goes through, then geographical balance also will have been achieved.

On the score of race or creed, the court is closer than usual to proportionate representation. The overwhelming majority of Protestants is represented by six justices. The Catholics have one and the Jews one in Butler and Frankfurter, respectively.

Significantly enough, Brandeis, the first Jew ever appointed to the court, withheld his retirement until Frankfurter was firmly seated on the court. The only other Jew ever appointed, Justice Cardoza, died recently. Technically, it was he who Frankfurter succeeded. Actually, however, the famous Frankfurter succeeded the great Brandeis. The two of them saw eye to eye on many fundamentals of Supreme Court philosophy, and both constantly harped on the theme of experimentation in government.

Listen, World!

The Meanest Criminal.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU'VE heard of the "meanest criminal" who robs the baby's bank, steals the dog's soup bone and rifles the church's poor-box. But such a sneak thief is a bungling amateur beside the arch-terrorist who—

WRECKS A CHILD'S FAITH . . . WARPS HIS YOUNG IDEALS . . . ROBS HIM OF HIS RIGHTFUL HERITAGE OF LOVE AND JOY . . . AND USES HIS SENSITIVE EMOTIONS AS A PUNCHING BAG.

But who'd be cruel enough, low enough, to do such a beastly thing?

MAMA WOULD!

To be more explicit, eight out of every ten divorced women do all these things and consider themselves entirely justified in so doing. Moreover, they have the backing of tradition and sentiment in their procedure . . . and the unquestioning love and loyalty of their pitiful little victims!

It's an amazing thing . . . this Revenge Racket which has developed with Divorce. Darkest Africa's savages were never more openly vicious in their procedure than these charming and seemingly intelligent ex-wives of civilized America. Theoretically, they are the Flower of Feminity . . . freed from the stupid suspicions and misunderstandings which have hitherto shackled their sex. From childhood they have played, studied and worked with boys. Now they have achieved Equality. By every privilege and power which the law can bestow, they stand shoulder to shoulder with men, and boast of the fact.

But do they make good on their boast? Do they maintain their sportsmanship under the test of divorce hiding their natural rancor . . . telling themselves that this is their quarrel and theirs alone . . . presenting proud and placid faces to their children?

THEY DO NOT.

IN THEIR INSATIABLE DESIRE FOR ATTENTION AND REVENGE NEARLY ALL OF THEM "GO NATIVE" AND DRAG THEIR CHILDREN WITH THEM.

Of all forms of cruelty, none can exceed this practice in viciousness or disastrous effects upon the youngsters involved. Nature is kind to a growing child, protecting his tender immaturity by a sheath of indifference which shields him from the ugly disorder about him. Normally, an adolescent is little concerned with the domestic brawls of his Oldsters. He may, if provoked, feel a facile pity . . . but his natural, healthy impulse rebels against "taking sides." His life lies ahead—not in this malicious muddle which surrounds him . . . and nature labors strenuously to keep him aloof.

But not so Poor Dear Mama! To her outraged spirit, there is something hideous and abnormal about her child's indifference. "If you really loved me, you'd be sorry for me!" she wails. And forthwith proceeds to unburden an ever-lengthening list of grievances against "That Terrible Man—Your Father." Sickened and shocked, the miserable youngster listens . . . his plastic spirit battered and bewildered, his viewpoint inevitably warped by the brutal bludgeoning.

Men have spent years in jail for not half that cruelty. Yet who would dare call Poor Dear Mama a criminal? Actually, she is as ruthless as any Jack the Ripper. No child, under such training, has the slightest chance to develop normally . . . His own married life is doomed while he is still an infant. "There orta be a law" against such guerilla warfare. Or, if laws be impractical, Public Opinion should act . . . strip such women of their sentimental camouflage . . . expose them for the vicious menace which they are.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

THE longest congress ever has remained in session is 354 days (in 1917-18). This year's session, Senate Republican Leader McNary has suggested half jocularly, may last until Thanksgiving, which would be pretty close to the record.

On Valentine's day, administration leaders got house Democrats together for a pep session. But when the representatives emerged from the cigar smoke later, some said there had been squawks that the root of the trouble was in the White House.

And the party leaders in congress subsequently were reported to have decided to hold back controversial matters until they can see how much good this week's solidarity pleas did.

Army and Navy.

Overwhelmingly, the house voted Wednesday to give the army 3,050 more planes and strengthen Panama canal defenses.

To a Republican's charge that the U. S. was entering an alliance "with somebody" (France had just ordered 415 more American warplanes), Democratic Rep. Pace retorted: "I feel sure that the president didn't say our frontier is on the Rhine. In my judgment he could well have said, 'Our first line of defense is England and France'." Majority Leader Rayburn said Europe was "more volcanic" than in 1914, and an effort to limit the army to 1,000 additional planes a year was beaten, 183 to 136.

Simultaneously, the house naval committee (while the fleet maneuvered in the Caribbean) refused, 14 to 5, to strike out provisions for work on the Pacific island of Guam—then okayed the naval expansion bill. And the senate military committee announced its decision to make public much of the testimony it had heard concerning U. S. airplane sales to France.

Tussles to Come.

Many touchy topics remain to be taken up by this congress, such as:

Neutrality—Specific suggestions hve been held back by the administration. Many leaders are inclined to await European developments.

Relief—Chairman Byrnes of senate unemployment committee favors complete revision of the system to put relief under a new Department of Public Works.

Labor—Legislation urged by AFL is opposed by CIO. And Sen. Burke has proposed restriction of NLRB to the prosecution of cases in regular courts. This week the senate civil liberties committee urged action, too—to curb labor spies and company police.

Pensions—House committee hearings on this question may continue another month. The administration wants the social security program extended. Townsendites and general welfare plan proponents have been heard, too. The latter scheme differs from the Townsend prescription mainly in that it calls for a gross income tax rather than a transaction tax.

Farming—Seventeen senators have sponsored a "cost of production" plan by which the secretary of agriculture would set minimum prices for more than 50 products. But Secretary Wallace would rather stick to the crop control law and hike benefits. Off the record, some Republicans favor doing nothing, so the Democrats will be left holding the sack in 1940 if conditions are bad.

At Home

To Succeed Brandeis.

When 82-year-old Louis D. Brandeis retired this week from the United States supreme court bench, on which he served 22 years, western states immediately went into action to press claims for representation in the highest court.

Iowans recommended Wiley Blount Rutledge, 48, dean of their state university law school. Legislators from farther west were said to favor Judges Sam Bratton, 51, of New Mexico; Joseph C. Hutcheson, jr., 60, of Texas, and Harold M. Stephens, 53, a native of Utah.

Born in Utah, too, was Florence E. Allen, 55, a U. S. judge in Ohio now, who has been mentioned as a possible supreme court appointee. And SEC Chairman William O. Douglas, 40, 'twas noted, hails from Washington. Other western possibilities included Senators Lewis B. Schwellenbach, 45, of Washington, and Sherman Minton, 49, of Indiana.

Whither America?

Keynoting Republican "victory dinners" last Monday night, Herbert Hoover declared, in part:

"The greatest gift of government to the ill-fed, ill-housed and ill-clothed is fidelity to government obligation, less taxes, a balanced budget and a convertible gold currency. . . . It's greatest humanitarian task . . . is to restore 10,000,000 to jobs, revive a paralyzed agriculture, and thereby really relieve 20,000,000 destitute. And that task must not be obscured by proposals of entanglement abroad. . . .

"The president says that inasmuch as our present income is only $60,000,000,000, we only have to spend as if we had $80,000,000,000 in order to lift ourselves up to the Republican level. As the ancient prospector said: 'There ain't no gold in them rainbows.' . . . Mr. Roosevelt says 'this generation has a rendezvous with destiny.' The most probable spot for that rendezvous today is inflation . . . with a full-sized dictator."

Iowa's Rep. Thomas E. Martin estimated the 1940 public debt, in the form of dollar bills sewed together, would make a blanket 300 feet wide extending from Washington to Los Angeles.

Hines' Defense.

Accused by District Attorney Dewey of plotting to abet a $20,000,000 policy racket, Tammany Leader Jimmy Hines had not answered the charge yet when his first trial ended in a mistrial. This week his defense was being heard in the retrial in New York. An ex-police commissioner, summoned by the defense, denied he ever had shifted policemen at Hines's request. And a magistrate also denied having been "influenced" by Hines.

QUOTES

Sen. Key Pittman: "No people who were afraid to fight for liberty ever retained liberty."

Sen. Gerald P. Nye: "We should be interested in saving our own democracy, and not other people's democracy."

Sen. James J. Davis: "No problem in the world today is so vital to world peace and international security as our own unsolved unemployment problem."

People

Return of the Airman.

When Roy Schreck, Spokane's flying weatherman, wasn't heard from after vanishing in a gale, and 21 planes had searched for him in vain, his wife persisted in believing he was alive.

Three days later, he telephoned her from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. He had hit a mountain, floundered through snow for three days without food—and saved himself.

* * *

Ex-Prisoners' Paths.

Ex-convict Charles A. Ward is a millionaire manufacturer now in St. Paul, Minn. This week another ex-convict and ex-law student were held for trying to extort $15,000 from him by threatening to link him with the unsolved murder of Walter Liggett, Minneapolis newspaper man. Police said there was no indication that the two men had incriminting evidence against Ward.

* * *

Vallee No Sissy.

Dimple-cheeked, wavy-haired Rudy Vallee's tendency to toss a haymaker when excited has gotten him in trouble a half-dozen times. Latest charge against Vallee was made by a Miami bus boy who said the singer slugged him when he accidentally brushed Vallee's back with a tray. In court, Vallee said he had just turned round suddenly—and won acquittal.

Abroad

To Select Pope.

More than a third of this world's people are Christians. Nearly half of this third are Roman Catholics. Their church is second only to Confucianism in numbers and second to none in the extent of its influence on western civilization. Soo this church's cardinals will choose a new supreme pontiff.

For Pope Pius XI, who died last week, funeral services were being held daily this week in Rome. Hundreds of thousands of people filed past his red-velvet couch in St. Peter's before he was buried Tuesday, and Friday was a day of national mourning throughout Italy.

From far places, meanwhile, Cardinals hurried to the Vatican. By March 1 all of them were expected to be there for the highly significant election of the next pope which many envoys to the Holy See believe will be closely contested.

* * *

Exodus Planned.

A five-year plan to cost $300,000,000 was hatched this week by the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees at London.

Executive Director George Rublee, 70, of Madison, Wis., had brought news that Germany would (1) let young Jews leave the Reich if they would help their elders emigrate later, (2) permit those left behind to work in the meantime, and (3) okay use of Jewish property to set up a trust fund to finance the exodus.

Having obtained these concessions, Rublee turned his job over to Sir Herbert Emerson, League of Nations assistant high commissioner for refugees, and the committee announced its plan.

* * *

Spanish Spunk.

The last of the loyalists were driven from Catalonia this week, but their premier, Juan Negrin, was in Valencia—apparently determined to fight on. Insurgents, therefore, intensified their siege of Madrid while starting a purge of "subversive" Spaniards in conquered territory.
